Free Material Distribution

The Botany Department of Government Degree College Jammalamadugu organized a free material distribution program to support students and faculty in their academic and research pursuits. As part of this initiative, a variety of educational resources such as botany textbooks, study aids, plant identification guides, and research papers were distributed to help deepen the understanding of plant sciences. Additionally, essential practical tools for fieldwork and laboratory studies, including microscopes, lab equipment, and sample collection kits, were provided to students. This effort was aimed at making learning resources accessible to all, especially for those who might face financial constraints. By offering these materials for free, the department sought to enhance the academic experience, encourage further exploration in the field of botany, and support students in their pursuit of excellence in both theory and practical applications of plant science. The initiative was met with great enthusiasm, with many students expressing their gratitude for the opportunity to access valuable resources without any cost.
